The event was a thrilling success, as hundreds of people of all ages gathered at the beautiful winery to celebrate fall's harvest. Activities took place throughout the day and into the evening. There were arts and crafts for children, games and competitions, grape stomps, vineyard tours, wine tastings, and a photo booth full of Hungarian costumes and props. Of course, the event featured delicious traditional Hungarian foods such as gulyás, homemade Hungarian sausage and lángos. Videki, a St. Paul-based Hungarian folk dance group, performed throughout the day as well and offered folk dance classes to all.
